WHY SO LITTLE HAS CHANGED

- Fish Don’t See Water
- Diversity initiatives are repackaged and renamed
- Reactive and follow critical incidents
- Students and activists depart from the institution

European laborers who came to the colonies are referred to as indentured servants to distinguish them.

In 1691, the term “white” is first used in law:

- The first legal use of “white” was used to ban racial intermarriage.
- The law focused the punishment on the “white” lover.
- The law distinguished “white” from all others in the colonies: “Negro,” “mulatto,” and “Indian.”
- The law created a new synonym: English equals white.
- Other European immigrants could later be included in the new legal category of “white.”

A prejudice is a pre-judgment in favor of or against a person, a group, an event, an idea, or a thing.

- An action based on prejudgment is discrimination.
- A negative prejudgment is often called a stereotype.
- An action based on a stereotype is called bigotry.

Power is a relational term.

- It can only be understood as a relationship between human beings in a specific setting.
- It must be exercised to be visible.

Power is control of, or access to, those institutions sanctioned by the state.

Power is ownership and control of the major resources of a state; and the capacity to make and enforce decisions based on this ownership and control;

Power is the capacity of a group of people to decide what they want and to act in an organized way to get it.

INSTITUTIONAL RACISM VS STRUCTURAL RACISM

Institutional Racism

Institutions Racism occurs within and between institutions. Intuitional racism is discriminatory treatment, unfair policies and inequitable opportunities and impacted, based on race, produced and perpetuated by institutions (schools, mass media, etc.)

Structural Racism

Structural Racism lies underneath, all around and across society. It encompasses (1) history, (2) culture, (3) interconnected institutions and policies, the key relationships and rules across society providing the legitimacy and reinforcements to maintain and perpetuate racism.
